Ticonderoga Country Club

The 18-hole course at the Ticonderoga Country Club facility in Ticonderoga, New York features 6,287 yards of golf from the longest tees for a par of 71 (37-34). The course rating is 69.7 and it has a slope rating of 120. Designed by Seymour Dunn, the Ticonderoga golf course opened in 1926 and is located in the historic Lord Howe Valley. This provides a unique 18-hole track built on the site of the famed "Battle on Snowshoes" where Trout Brook is quick to grab an errant tee or approach shot. George F. Mackey manages the course as the Golf Professional.
